Number 1

Preparing to Parade—Coach Larry Varnell, the Rev. Bernard Karst, S.J., Aldo Notarianni, Andy Martelon and Bill McCreery are seen preparing to leave for the Alumni luncheon-rally.

Alumni Sponsor Pre-Game Luncheon Rally

Students to Parade Staff to Luncheon

The Student Council of Regis College will parade the Regis athletic staff and college officials to the Alumni Association luncheon-rally, according to Andy Martelon, council president.

Via Federal

Decorated automobiles will form a caravan on the campus and drive to the downtown district via Federal Boulevard to North Speer and down 16th Street.

Support Team

The theme of the parade will be indicated by "Beat D. U!" placards on the cars. Mr. Martelon said that the parade would be sponsored in order to stimulate public interest in the Regis-D. U. game and to give students on the campus an opportunity to demonstrate their pre-game support of the team. The caravan will leave the campus at 11:30 a. m.

job now total $260,000, leaving the fund approximately $50,000 shy of the amount necessary.

The drive has been quietly reopened, especially among individuals and firms of wealth, and it is hoped that the necessary funds may be forthcoming by the time all the steel is on hand for the work.

Athletic Staff to be Guests of Honor

On Monday, January 15, at 12:15 p. m., the Regis College Alumni Association will fete the athletic staff of the Regis Rangers at a Beat D. U. luncheon rally to be held at Petrino's Restaurant, 1647 Tremont Place.

Expect Crowd

A large number of alumni will be there to boost the team, according to Gerald Galligan, arrangements committee chairman. Mr. Galligan said that Petrino's is prepared to accommodate 100.

Varnell Speaks

Coach Larry Varnell will be the principal speaker. He will give a last-minute description of the Ranger squad's pre-game condition.

A 5-minute business meeting to elect a treasurer to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Al Hamburg is also scheduled.

Resolution Adopted

The association decided to have this luncheon rally at the last general meeting. A resolution was adopted at that meeting to support the basketball team in every way possible. Luncheon meetings for the association are a part of the organization's by-laws. At a luncheon meeting held last spring, over 40 alumni attended.

Five Attend

The Very Rev. Raphael C. McCarthy, S.J. (president of Regis), the Rev. Bernard Karst, S.J. (association moderator), John V. Coyne (athletic director), and Assistant Coach Moore will attend the luncheon with Larry Varnell.

Classroom Building Foundations Finished

Regis' new Classroom Building, has reached the first stage of its completion with the foundations in place. Further progress has run into a snag, however, due to the war-generated shortage of structural steel.

Although approximately $210,000 was received or pledged in the Regis Development drive staged last summer, spiraling building costs have antiquated the initial estimate of $200,000 to complete the building. Actual bids for the

A Message from Father McCarthy

With this issue the ALUMNUS REVIEW appears in a new format and under a new name. The latter is especially appropriate, for the purpose of THE ROUNDUP is to bring our Alumni into closer contact with one another and with the school. Both these objectives are highly desirable. Distance and time tend to separate men whose associations were intimate while they were together in school. But their interest is not dead and it would be revived if they knew where former pals are and what they are doing. One objective of THE ROUNDUP is precisely to supply such information. Therefore it welcomes any bits of personal history or of present activities of those who have ever attended Regis, whether they graduated or not. The names of all such men are on file in the Alumni office but in many cases addresses are lacking; in others they are inaccurate. Help in building a correct, up-to-the-minute list will be deeply appreciated.

One of the great assets of a school is an enthusiastic, loyal Alumni group. Notre Dame owes much of its fame and its success to the backing by this kind of organization. It is a truism that every educational institution owes much of its success to the interest of its former students. Usually it is difficult to start a new enterprise or to resuscitate one that is moribund. A few of our Alumni, and the fraternity Alpha Delta Gamma, have generously assumed the task of building an Alumni Association of which Regis can be proud. But they cannot do this job alone; they need the cooperation of many Regis men. Without this the plan is foredoomed; with it we can confidently hope that the organization will grow to the level where even the overcautious will be happy to be connected with it.

Raphael C. McCarthy, S.J.

Who's Where Doing What?

Since we are all interested in old classmates, we feel that this column will be of interest to our readers. In this column we hope to include all Alumni about whom we can gather information. We will appreciate any information you send us about yourselves and other former Regis students. Also, please inform us of any inaccuracy.

William Patrick Dolan attended Regis when it was Sacred Heart College in 1901, 1902 and 1903. He played football, too. After leaving Regis, he worked for the American Furniture Company in Denver for 24 years. In 1934 he entered federal service in the United States Marshal's office and later became Crier of the United States District Court here in Denver. Mr. Dolan has two sons and one daughter. His sons also attended Regis. He lives at 3243 Marion Street, Denver, Colorado.

One son, William R. Dolan (class of 1932), played football under "Red" Strader, famous Regis football coach and mentor of the St. Mary's College team in California. Bill is remembered for his stellar performance as right end. He received a B.S. in Commerce degree at Regis. Since 1941 Mr. Dolan has been with the Cudahy Packing Company. For the last three years he has been managing their By-Products Division in Fresno, California. His present address is 1845 Harrison Street, Fresno, California.

Another son of William P. Dolan is Philip J. Dolan (class of 1933). Phil received a Ph.D degree in Eng-

Plain Talk

I BELIEVE IN PLAIN TALK! This is your paper. The reason is that you are either a graduate or a former Regis student. In like manner, the Alumni Association is your organization. You are automatically a subscriber to this paper and a member of the alumni organization. Whether or not you choose to participate in the activities of this organization or to read its paper is up to you.

With all sincerity I would like to suggest that you must consider what your course of action will be in the light of practical necessity. All of us are in a position to help one another. If we do not band together to strengthen the common bond of experience among us, eventually we will find ourselves treated as a minority group. Is there any reason why Regis graduates cannot unite to help one another?

THIS PAPER HAS BEEN ORGANIZED for that purpose. Many former Regis students have found that they need one another's fellowship and have taken an active part in the organization of that association. Will you forgive the old cliché, "You have everything to gain and nothing to lose." Join with us!

Who Is the Aggressor?

IN A NATION'S YOUTH one can understand military and political bumptiousness. In the fading days of a nation's old age one can understand caution, coldness to injustice, and vacillation on an unprincipled sea of expediency. Can it be that the United States passed from the period of hot-headed youth to the arctic of old age without a stop at that middle time—the maturity of principles backed by strength?

This nation committed its share of indiscretions in its political adolescence. It was foolhardy for a shipload of American tars and a few mercenaries to invade and conquer Tripoli in order to stuff a record of insults and petty piracy down the Sultan's throat. When three Americans and a British deserter were removed from an American ship the United States went to war against the British empire, this despite offers of apology and indemnity. A handful of War Hawks swept us into a war against Mexico because of a border raid. We fought Spain without having any idea who blew up the Maine. Our entry into the first World War with the Allies only came after we had very nearly entered on the side of Germany!

NOW ALL THE ABOVE AFFAIRS can be questioned from the viewpoint of wisdom and justice. What is above question is that as a result of them no nation believed it could heap insult, much less acts of belligerency, upon the United States without waking up in the morning to the pounding of our guns.

No one person is in a position to say if or when we should fight Russia. The declaration of war is insured by the Constitution to a vote of Congress.

But there is this point. If we go to war with Russia, no matter what the future circumstances, it will not be without precedent in our own history. And no matter how or when we fight Russia, it will not be for less cause than we waged half a dozen other battles against punier and less guilty foes in the past.

Russia has broken a solemn promise by iso-

From the Alumni Prez...

Fellow Alumnus:

The appearance of this copy of the REGIS ROUNDUP in your mail box marks another step in the renaissance of the Regis College Alumni Association. Our fast-growing body has been given a voice. The significance of the occasion is deeper than one may realize at first blush—this newspaper represents the first important affirmative action of our new organization.

The Duty of Each

Our two brother alumni, Chenia Abegg and Herman Faulhaber, have assumed an onerous task in undertaking the publishing of this fine paper, and in so doing, have set an example for all of us to follow. These men, of course, cannot and should not be expected to carry the entire burden. It is the duty of each and every one of us to lend our faithful support to this project, either by contributing newsworthy items to the editors or by advertising in the columns.

Alpha Gamma Delta

My remarks would be glaringly incomplete and unkind were I not to extend the gratitude of the alumni to the Alpha Gamma Delta fraternity at Regis College for their untiring efforts in heretofore publishing the Alumni Review—the worthy forerunner of this paper. The fraternity has honored us by consenting to continue its services to the alumni by representing our paper on the campus.

Official Voice

Now that we have an official voice, distinguished by a handsome format, we can anticipate closer relations among the alumni and greater success in their projects. Let us continue to look ahead!

Sincerely,

Aldo G. Notarianni,
President,
Regis College Alumni Association.

lating United States forces and trying to drive them from a legally held position in Berlin. She has made dirty rags of the banners of nations we were bound to restore to freedom—Poland, Korea, China, Austria.

RUSSIA HAS IMPRISONED our nationals, to name one, Robert Vogeler. She has committed espionage through a network of aliens and quislings. Her minions have shot and killed American soldiers in Yugoslavia and Korea. In China her agents turned upon our friend and ally, Chiang Kai-shek, and drove him from his legal position as head of the Chinese people.

And added to that she wages open war on truth and religion and voices open threats to destroy this country.

The questions are there: How can we speak of agreements with Russia or her satellites? How can there be compromise or consideration of her demands? What do we owe her other than the retributive arm of justice defending our rights?

And above all, no matter how war might come, how can we be accounted an aggressor against Russia?

With the Alumni Office

By
John Coyne
Director

The only appropriate way to start this column is to congratulate the alumni who have been instrumental in starting this publication. Some means of communication with the alumni has been badly needed. This office has certainly felt the need, and we hope to make the best of the opportunity.

Larry and I will share the column from one publication date to the next. We would like to write for you, so let us hear from you with some indication of the type of material you would like us to cover.

Let's Talk Basketball

Basketball is certainly in the air at the present time, so let's devote this column to the subject. Remember, I view these games just as you do as an interested spectator, so you are not receiving expert opinion. I did accompany the team on their Mid-West swing and made some observations that I would like to share with you.

The record now stands at 12 won and 4 lost, including the Alumni game. The record is impressive just as it reads, but becomes even more so when you realize that 12 games were played away from Denver and all games have been played against excellent competition. Speaking of the competition, perhaps a good number of you do not recognize some of the schools on the schedule, but we are not playing a single game this year except against teams of recognized basketball reputation. All are members of the NAIB, an association dedicated to basketball, in which Regis holds membership.

Topnotch Ball Team

You can be very proud of the boys representing Regis this year on the basketball floor. It is one of the finest-spirited clubs we have had. They are handicapped by the lack of height and have to make up for it with ability and determination to win. They have showed that they possess both. It is a fine ball-handling and shooting team that can adjust itself to any type of play. As far as the determination goes, the won column would be entirely different if they did not have it. Every ball game they have played on the road has been close, and in most of them they have trailed up to the closing minutes of the game.

I think it is hard on a team and foolish on the part of anyone to predict great things for a team even after a good start. Let us just see them through one game after another until the end of the season and then have our say if it is warranted. This can be said, those of you who will come to the games will see some of the most interesting basketball games Regis has played.

Team Play the Keynote

Individual players cannot be singled out for special praise either. To this date it has been team play that has won the ball games. That is the way the boys want it. Our sophomores have helped immeasurably to give us the depth that we have not had in past years. The experienced players are playing the basketball they are capable of playing and it is beautiful to watch.

You have a part to play in the balance of the season. Get out to see the team play. In cooperation with the University of Denver, our home schedule this year is offered as part of double-header programs, with Denver playing one of their conference games on each program. It is the type of program you should support.

Share in Gate

Our contract with the University of Denver is an extremely good one from Regis's point of view. We share in the gate receipts, and our share will be generous if we get the support we need from you. We want to show D. U. that we can contribute our share of the house. I know that if you come once, you will come again.

In closing, it is my hope that each and every one of you will have the opportunity to meet personally the boys on this year's varsity squad. You will appreciate their play, but when you meet them you can appreciate what a fine group of young men they are.

Buzz Boys Give Up Holidays; Win Enid, Oklahoma Tourney

(Special to the Roundup)

"Perhaps it was worth giving up the holidays for." Yes, that's what I heard a couple of the ball players saying after the last road trip, which saw them win three out of four games and bring the bacon back to "good ole' Regis." While most of us were enjoying a turkey dinner on Christmas, the 10-man squad of Larry Varnell's left for the poor man's tournament in Enid, Oklahoma.

Nip and Tuck

The opening night the Rangers tangled with a tough little five from Ada, Oklahoma, known as East Central State College. The game, typical of the many close ones played by Regis in the last few weeks, was nip and tuck until the last three minutes; then, sparked by high-scorer (23) Dick Petry, the Rangers broke the game wide open with a 10-point outburst. Bobby Wallace was at his best, hitting for 16 points. Other stand-outs were George Eckert, who broke the game open with three timely jump shots from the side, and Tom Kavanaugh, who hit the strings for 7 points. The final score was East Central 60, Regis 68.

Washburn the Victim

The following night Washburn of Topeka, Kansas, was the victim of the first-seeded Rangers by the score of 70-57. Following the usual pattern, the game was tight all the way until the final three minutes, when again a fire alarm finish was staged by the Rangers.

Championship Game

On the third night for the championship, Coach Varnell's Buzz Buys met the very strong five of Arkansas Tech. Tech had two skyscrapers who towered above the smaller cowboys by several inches. Probably Tech was the toughest team that the Rangers met for a number of reasons. First, it was the first championship game in which several of the ball players had participated, and, secondly, we had never met such height. For the first half these reasons were dominating factors, with the half-time score being 34-33 Regis's favor. In the second half the stage fright was over and the aggregation from Denver really poured it on. Wallace played more spectacularly than any professional, literally keeping Regis in the ball game in the first half by virtue of his 20-point attack. For the night, Bobby Wallace was high with 25 markers, while Petry collected 12, Eckert 11 and Conlon 8. The final score was 75 to 61, with Regis collecting the trophy. Wallace and Kavanaugh were selected on the all-star team, while Petry just missed being chosen.

Fourth Night

To wind up the road trip the Rangers went to Canyon, Texas, where they tangled with West Texas State for the fourth game in as many nights. This game was anti-climactic and for the first time in eight games the Buzz Boys lost the encounter, 67-72. This game was featured by a barrage of fouls which ended with four men fouling out while the fifth was banished for roughness. It was a typical game on a home floor with the officiating being more than partial. However, with a little luck and a timely bucket we might have won. Kavanaugh was high man with 14 and Petry and Kohl each collected 10.

Sixteen Alumni Teach In Evening Division

Sixteen Regis graduates or former Regis students are members of the staff of 50 night school professors offering courses during the spring semester.

Of the 16, three are Jesuits. Those include the Very Rev. R. C. McCarthy, S.J., Ph.D. (president of the college); the Most Rev. B. J. Sullivan, S.J., D.D., and the Rev. Harold L. Stansell, S.J., M.A., Ph.D. Father McCarthy will offer a course in Mental Hygiene from 7:30 to 9:20 p. m. on Mondays. He is a noted psychologist and has written several books. He holds a degree from Kings College, University of London. Bishop Sullivan is teaching three religion courses in the Life of Christ, Apologetics, and Grace and the Sacraments. Courses in the History of the Church in the U. S. and European Diplomatic History will be offered by Father Stansell.

Lay Alumni Teachers

Among the lay alumni teachers are John Daly, B.S.C., R.A.; D. F. Taylor, B.S.C., C.P.A., and Thomas J. McMahon, B.S.C., C.P.A., who are offering courses in Principals of Accounting, Advanced Accounting, and Corporation Income Tax Accounting, respectively.

In the field of Business Administration and Economics, Edmund L. Mullen, A.B., LL.B., will teach a class in Law: Property, Sales, Agency. James J. Delaney, B.S.C., LL.B., will teach Law: Negotiable Instruments. Aldo Notarianni,

M.A., LL.B., will offer the C. P. A. Law Review.

Francis Morriss, B.S., LL.B., and Aldo Notarianni, M.A., LL.B., are teaching Rhetoric and Composition in the English department. John O'Hayre, A.B., will offer a course in 19th Century English Writers.

In the Mathematics department, D. A. Zarlengo, A.M., will teach courses in Algebra and Trigonometry.

The Institute of Cultural Leisure has three alumni on its staff. Walter Rountree Jr. will conduct a course in Amateur Photography. William F. Joseph, B.F.A., M.A., will teach Basic Design in Art and a Survey of the History of Art. John A. Pollice, A.B., M.D., will lecture on Protecting Your Health.

Joseph H. Maschinot (class of 1927) received a B.S. in Chemistry degree at Regis, after which he began his career as a school teacher in Fremont County public schools. For 11 years he taught mathematics and science. His 12th year of teaching was spent at the Holy Cross Abbey in Canon City, Colorado. Since 1945, Mr. Maschinot has been working as a chemist for the

All Former Regis Students To Receive 'Roundup' Free

A unique feature of this new effort to place in the hands of each Regis alumnus a regular, printed periodical is that there is no subscription price. For that reason, it is the presumption of the editors that we might receive your cooperation in obtaining every possible name and address of any former Regis student. We stress the fact that it is not necessary to have graduated from Regis—only that, at some time or other, to have attended Regis.

Inadequate Mailing List

At the present time our mailing list numbers a mere 600 odd names, since the only list available to us was that of graduates only. So, if each of you will kindly fill in the blank appearing on the back page, we will be glad to add all names of former Regis students to the monthly ROUNDUP mailing list.

Adolph Coors Company in Golden, Colorado. The most remarkable thing about Joe Maschinot's career is the fact that he is the father of six girls and four boys for a total of 10 children. Two of his boys are now attending Regis High School. Mr. Maschinot lives at 1201 South York Street here in Denver.

The year 1935 saw the graduation of Max M. Jonke with a B.S. in Chemistry. Max says that about the only alumnus he ever sees is Lou Weber of Griffith Motors. Mr. Jonke has been a chemist with the Colorado Milling and Elevator Company for the past 11 years. He is married and has a daughter. His address is 3232 Fenton Street, Lakewood, Colorado.

Norman Brinkhaus, M.D., a 1943 grad, was called to the army immediately following a holiday's visit in Denver at his parents' home. He will be stationed at San Antonio, Texas, for a one-month training period, to be followed by another assignment at present unknown. Until the holidays, Norm had held a residency at the Albuquerque Veterans Hospital. Norm is married now, having exchanged "I do's" with Adelaide Semmelmann last June 14.

John Yelenick of the class of 1944 brought honor to himself, and indirectly to Regis, by being one of the standout majors in the recent Denver Community Chest campaign. John's team took an early lead in obtaining chest donations, and maintained it throughout the campaign.

Dr. Edward McNulty, who attended Regis from '39 through '41, is now located in his home town, Alliance, Nebraska, and is on the staff of the Slagle Clinic there. Ed received his M.D. from St. Louis University, interned at St. Joseph's Hospital here in Denver, and served two years in the U. S. Public Health Department in various parts of the country before locating in Alliance. He is married and has two children.
